

Gynecologic Cancer Symptom Diary

If you have any of the symptoms listed below for more than two weeks or if you have abnormal bleeding, please see your Ob/Gyn immediately. Early detection is key for survival.

Symptoms	Cervical Cancer	Ovarian Cancer	Uterine Cancer	Vaginal Cancer	Vulvar Cancer	Week One	Week Two
Abnormal vaginal discharge	✓	✓	✓	✓		S M T W T F S	S M T W T F S
Pelvic pain or pressure		✓	✓		✓	S M T W T F S	S M T W T F S
Abdominal or back pain		✓				S M T W T F S	S M T W T F S
Bloating		✓				S M T W T F S	S M T W T F S
Changes in bathroom habits		✓		✓		S M T W T F S	S M T W T F S
Itching or burning					✓	S M T W T F S	S M T W T F S
Changes in vulvar color or skin					✓	S M T W T F S	S M T W T F S
Abnormal vaginal bleeding	✓	✓	✓	✓		S M T W T F S	S M T W T F S

✓ Indicated as a symptom of this cancer type.

*Remember, a pap smear does not detect ovarian cancer;
an annual vaginal exam is necessary.*

Gynecologic Cancer Treatment

A gynecologic oncologist is a physician committed to the comprehensive treatment of women with, or who are at risk for, gynecologic cancer. These physicians have had additional fellowship training in oncology, and work in tandem with your Ob/Gyn to arrive at a diagnosis and plan appropriate treatment. At the AdventHealth Cancer Institute, our gynecologic oncologists are skilled in advanced minimally invasive surgery, as well as more advanced procedures for progressive diseases. Gynecologic oncologists are also trained and skilled in the use of appropriate chemotherapy and radiation for management of your disease.

- Being treated by a Gynecologist Oncologist for any gynecologic cancer may significantly increase your odds of survival.*
- More gynecologic cancer surgeries are performed at AdventHealth than any other hospital in the state of Florida. Experience matters!*
- AdventHealth physicians are involved in research studies and clinical trials that may help to provide our patients with a better survival rate.
- Our physicians are recognized international leaders in the field of gynecologic oncology and continue to set new standards in surgery and chemotherapy that shape the future of gynecologic cancer treatment.

For questions or to schedule an appointment, contact our Nurse Navigators at 407-303-1700.

AdventHealth Cancer Institute
2501 North Orange Avenue | Orlando, FL 32803
AdventHealthCancerInstitute.com

\ 2016 Florida Cancer Data System Centralized State Registry*

